Buying a Used Espresso Machine: Recall and Inspection Checklist

Our recall list holds 65 U.S. CPSC notices that mention espresso, coffee, moka, frother or burr-grinder products (fetched 2026-10-23 00:59 CDT). Search them at cremakarma.com/espresso-recall-checker/.

[ ] 1. Get the exact model number from the label before you pay.

[ ] 2. Search the model on cremakarma.com/espresso-recall-checker/ and on cpsc.gov/Recalls.

[ ] 3. If a recall matches, ask the seller whether the remedy was done, and contact the maker before use.

[ ] 4. Compare the asking price with the maker's current list price (on our product pages, with the date checked).

[ ] 5. Ask for the original receipt: some warranties transfer, many do not. Check the maker's warranty terms.

[ ] 6. Ask when it was last descaled and whether gaskets or shower screens were replaced.

[ ] 7. Check the portafilter size so you know which baskets and tampers fit (listed on our product pages where the maker states it).

[ ] 8. Set a price alert on the new model at cremakarma.com/price-alerts/ to compare.

This checklist is general information, not a safety inspection. Follow the maker's manual and any CPSC remedy.
